WORLDWIDE VOYAGES 2025/2026

It is little more than a year since the rebirth of Crystal, yet we have traveled far. I am proud of all that we have achieved in such a short time and excited about what is to come.

This is a significant year for Crystal, marking 35 years of our exceptional cruises. We will celebrate the occasion with anniversary sailings, the first of a new collection of voyages themed on a variety of subjects that we are creating. Our aim is to match your personal passions with your desire to explore the world.

I am delighted to reveal that one of the special guests joining one of our 35th anniversary cruises will be our good friend and associate Nobuyuki Matsuhisa. Chef Nobu has been such an important part of the Crystal journey. The opening of his restaurant Umi Uma® in 2003 was not only a gamechanger for the cruise industry, it also reflected the level of excellence we remain committed to delivering.

Indeed, as you will see when you turn the pages of this brochure, we are proud to announce the opening of another sensational dining experience, Beefbar, from the visionary restaurateur Riccardo Giraudi. Beyond the dining room, we have also unveiled the stunning new Le Casino de Monte-Carlo, a unique collaboration with one of the world leaders in entertainment and gaming, Monte-Carlo Société des Bains de Mer. And we continue to roll out extraordinary onshore experiences with the help of our expert partner Abercrombie & Kent. We want you to delve deeper into the fascinating world you set sail with us to discover.

With almost 90% of our former staff having now returned and so many of you sailing again with us, Crystal is one big happy family once more. Just as in 1990, when the first Crystal ships took to the high seas, everything feels possible.

COMING HOME TO CRYSTAL

“I never get bored on a Crystal ship,” says Heather Schweiger, who together with her husband, Tommy, has clocked up 112 Crystal cruises to date yet still finds something new each time. “They’ve got everything,” she explains. “I love padel tennis, which I play every day. I love the art, I’ve made jewelry, I learned the keyboard... The difference with Crystal ships compared with others is that the entertainment is Broadway level – far superior to any other cruise line – and the lectures are excellent.”

Tommy agrees, citing “the crew and the facilities” as the reasons he loves to sail with Crystal. “There’s just so much to do,” he says.

Also key is the draw of being part of the Crystal family. “There’s a sense of family, of happiness and friendliness,” explains Tommy. “The new owner of the company is a very clever man – he got nearly 90% of the crew back, so they’ve preserved that sense of the Crystal family and the Crystal feeling. We know so many of the crew by name. They’re not staff, they’re our friends – we’ve been friends for 20 years now.”

Heather sums it up: “We feel at home here.”

RECIPE

F O R

More top-name chefs and restaurateurs join Crystal's culinary roster as our dining at sea becomes even more exceptional

Words: LAURA ARCHER

SUCCESS

Opposite: ALAJMO BROTHERS, RAFFAELE AND MASSIMILIANO Above: RICCARDO GIRAUDI

SPEAKING from his home in Monaco, restaurateur Riccardo Giraudi is visibly excited about the opening of the first ever Beefbar at sea onboard Crystal Symphony and Crystal Serenity. “I’m very happy,” he says. “We’re also going to be on the new ships that are currently being built. It’s a real partnership – I’m married to Crystal now,” he laughs.

With this new venture, Giraudi is following in gilded footsteps – those made by Nobuyuki Matsuhisa, who opened the only Nobu on the ocean, then called Silk, with Crystal in 2003, a guest favorite to this day. “I have already four or five restaurants with Nobu in different hotels around the world, so I know it’s complementary,” Giraudi says of his decision to partner with Crystal. “It just made sense.”

This is all part of a trend for high-end restaurants to have a presence at sea – an innovation Crystal spearheaded with Nobu and continues to drive forward. Hot on the heels of Beefbar is a collaboration with the Alajmo brothers, Raffaele (Raf) and Massimiliano (Max), who oversee a group of restaurants with four Michelin stars between them. Their flagship restaurant, Le Calandre in Rubano, is one of only eight in Italy to hold three Michelin stars – Max was just 28 when it won its coveted third star with him at the helm. The brothers will create exclusive dishes for Osteria d’Ovidio.

But while the appeal of having a big-name chef onboard is clear, what’s in it for the restaurant in question? “We were attracted to the challenge of taking our cuisine around the world, and organizing everything meticulously – from the selection of the ingredients to the way the dishes will be presented and served,” says Max.

“What we appreciate about Crystal is the pursuit of quality and the desire to create the highest and most varied offering possible for guests,” adds Raf. “There’s no chance to get bored; routine doesn’t exist. Every day can be different. It is like walking through a small town that has many restaurants.”

This is a sentiment shared by Giraudi. “A ship is like any big city. You have to have a mix of restaurants. And I think with the revamp of Crystal, they’ve understood that,” he says.

So, what can guests expect from these new offerings? Beefbar, which is taking over the space formerly occupied by Tastes, will be open for poolside lunches as well as a more elevated evening dining experience.

“Our lunch menu is more deli-style,” Giraudi explains. “People do not necessarily want to go for a four- or five-course lunch; they want to have one of the best burgers they can by the pool, and that’s as elevated as it gets. We’re doing a bigger range of pizzas, our famous sliders and a smash burger.”

He is also enthusiastic about his new range of beef cold cuts. “We are now doing very good marbling in beef. And when you start marbling beef, you can do more than steaks, such as ham. So we’re also going to have all the hams that I’m producing – the ribeye ham is amazing. We will use them to make a Ruben sandwich and things like that.”

Dinner, meanwhile, will be more like that at the land-based restaurants, although Giraudi is keen to stress the uniqueness. “With Beefbar, every restaurant is different; we do not photocopy the style. We keep the DNA on the menu, but we try to give a different experience depending on where the restaurant is situated. On Crystal, because it’s open for lunch and dinner, it’s more casual. I want diners to feel relaxed. It’s still elevated but they’re on holiday so you want them to feel great. Drink wine, have some steak – it’s simple.”

The Alajmo brothers feel the same. “I want guests to feel at home and relaxed while eating,” says Max. “Let’s put formality aside and focus on having fun,” adds Raf. Along with the new dishes created for Crystal, they will be serving the most popular items from their menu at Le Calandre. Their aim? “Osteria d’Ovidio will be an embassy for Italy in the middle of the sea. We want to meet the expectations of the guest on vacation who decides, ‘Tonight, I’m going to Italy’. Our success will be in making them feel and experience Italy at the table.”

It’s a concept to which Chef Nobu adheres. “In the restaurant business, the most important things are good food, good service, and good atmosphere,” he says. “Umi Uma is a mix of friendly and comfortable, with really good food and service. Because it’s on a cruise ship, it’s homier – you get to know the same customers every day. That means you get to make it more like a family.”

And with Beefbar and the Alajmo brothers, the Crystal family has just become bigger – and better. ♦

A WORLD OF OPPORTUNITY

With more exclusive A&K Land Experiences rolling out on Crystal itineraries over the coming year, we checked in with Geoffrey Kent, pictured, the founder of Abercrombie & Kent, to see what guests can expect.

What elements of the Abercrombie & Kent experience do you want to give to Crystal guests?

When I started A&K, I wanted to create journeys that were adventurous by day and luxurious by night. I wanted my guests to experience the thrill of adventure while also enjoying the comforts of home.

Many people refer to Crystal as a home away from home, so Crystal in the A&K family makes perfect sense. I want Crystal guests to experience the same level of service and attention to detail that A&K guests have come to expect. I also want them to have the opportunity to experience the world's most amazing destinations in a way that is both luxurious and adventurous.

How do you see the A&K and Crystal partnership developing?

Both A&K and Crystal are committed to providing our guests with exceptional travel experiences. I believe that by working together, we can create even more amazing journeys for our guests.

How have you found the cruising experience with Crystal?

I've sailed a few times with Crystal, and I am incredibly impressed with it, particularly after the recent revitalization. The attention to detail throughout the ships is remarkable. They've managed to capture a classic sense of luxury while incorporating modern design elements.

When people are enjoying the comforts of the ship, it can be hard to persuade them to disembark – what would you say to encourage people to explore the destinations the ship visits?

The shore excursions are an essential part of the Crystal cruising experience. They provide our guests with the opportunity to experience the destinations they visit in a more intimate way. Crystal shore excursions are designed to be both informative and enjoyable. They are led by experienced guides who are passionate about sharing their knowledge of the local culture and history.

What's your favourite place to cruise to?

The Mediterranean holds a special place in my heart. Cruising its shores allows you to immerse yourself in the ancient civilizations of Greece and Rome, savor the culinary delights of Italy and France, and witness breathtaking landscapes from the Amalfi Coast to the British Isles.

Looking ahead, I'm very excited about Crystal's 2026 itineraries. The opportunity to explore East Africa, with its vibrant cultures and incredible wildlife safaris, is particularly appealing for Crystal guests. The chance to witness the cherry blossom season in Japan is another experience that I can't recommend enough.

And finally, what's the one thing you always pack?

A sense of adventure! ♦

WHERE WILL YOU EXPLORE NEXT?

Book one of our terrific A&K Land Experiences today. We've harnessed the expertise of our partner Abercrombie & Kent to create unforgettable memories in destinations around the globe. Departing Bridgetown in Barbados, we travel across the north coast of South America to Cartagena in Colombia. Our first port of call is Grenada, an island famous for growing spices and distilling some mighty powerful rum. A relaxing day at sea follows as we travel to Bonaire, the first of the three Dutch Antilles known as the ABC islands, to roam its colorful streets and sit in the shade of the mimosa trees. A day in Curaçao follows, allowing ample time to shop in the floating market in Willemstad, followed by Oranjestad in Aruba, where off-road safaris and helmet diving are among the activities on offer. One last day at sea, enjoying the ship's comforts, takes us to our final port of call, Cartagena in Colombia.

Begin this cruise from South to North America with an overnight stay in Cartagena. This lively Colombian city offers a variety of ways to get to know it better, from art exhibitions, to cookery classes, and sunset cruises. Next, we spend an enjoyable day at sea sailing across the Caribbean to the Dominican Republic. Two of the island's destinations are on our radar: Santo Domingo and Samana, with cycle rides around old colonial streets, the chance to find out about how chocolate is made, and a hike to a hidden waterfall. Our voyage continues in Grand Turk, with superb snorkeling amid coral gardens in turquoise waters, before we spend a day sailing to the beaches of Freeport in the Bahamas. Next, we spend a day sailing to the popular vacation resorts of Cabo San Lucas and Puerto Vallarta, before reaching Acajutla in El Salvador, where a coffee from one of the country's famous plantations is a must. Nicaragua is next; our port, San Juan del Sur, is the gateway to some serious surfing. Costa Rica comes into view at Puntarenas, where there is seafood to dine on and nature to admire further inland. After a day at sea, we reach South America at Manta in Ecuador, renowned for its wickerwork, an obvious souvenir. Our final port is Guayaquil, gateway to the Galápagos Islands.

GUAYAQUIL → SAN JUAN

Sail along one of the world's man-made wonders on this cruise

Relax into life onboard with two days at sea, crossing from South to Central America at Fuerte Amador for Panama City, where we spend two nights. That's plenty of time to explore its streets, old and new, venture to its fringe of beaches and jungle - and, of course, buy a Panama hat. You could also take a closer look at the canal locks at Miraflores, through which gigantic vessels squeeze onto the canal. After our ship has slipped along the narrow channel built more than a century ago, we make for Cartagena, a beautiful UNESCO-listed city on the coast of Colombia. Then we cross the Caribbean to historic Santo Domingo in the Dominican Republic, the holiday playground of Punta Cana, and our final port, San Juan in Puerto Rico.

A sequence of small islands maps a charming route for us. First is Marigot, on the French-speaking side of Saint Martin, with its gingerbread-style houses, then the rainforest-clad island of Dominica beckons at Roseau. Buzzy Bridgetown delivers us to powder sands loved by celebrities before the twin volcanic cones, the Pitons, signal our approach to Saint Lucia. St John's, Antigua, is next - don't miss the preserved Georgian dockyard that tended Admiral Nelson's ships. Time to beach-bar-hop in Jost Van Dyke in the British Virgin Islands; learn all about the Dominican Republic in the museum at Samana; and wiggle our toes in the white sands at Grand Turk on Turks and Caicos before two days take us to our final port, New York City.

NEW YORK → SAN JUAN

Then we cross to St John's in Antigua to hit the beach - they say there's one for every day of the year here - or zipline through the rainforest. Glamorous St Barts is next, the little Caribbean island where you can shop like you're on Fifth Avenue, quickly followed by St Thomas in the US Virgin Islands - take the cable car into the hills for a grand overview. We leave the capital of Portugal far behind but not the country, calling first at Madeira, garlanded with lilies and passion flowers thanks to its mild climate. A day at sea delivers us to the Azores for more Portuguese culture, the possibility of an invigorating hike, and some whale-watching. Four days at sea allows lots of time to slip into cruise life and enjoy all the ship has to offer. Then Antigua emerges on the horizon.
